

WAYPOINT ARCHON

An enterprise-grade market data entitlement management system.

Waypoint Archon provides firms with the capability to control access to authorized market data services across individual and firm-level users, vendors and applications. Archon delivers transparency into entitlement permissions across the enterprise, helping firms centralize tracking, support compliance risk management and simplify exchange reporting workflows. With a modern management interface, single sign-on support and a simple API designed to integrate with trading systems, Archon helps organizations enforce market data access rules with greater control and efficiency.

Manage market data access.
Support compliance.
Strengthen control.

Archon can be deployed to support a single firm managing internal market data use or a vendor managing entitlements across multiple customers and applications. Built to integrate with existing trading and distribution platforms, Archon provides a centralized control layer without directly handling market data itself. As part of Waypoint's broader data optimization ecosystem, Archon can also connect entitlement control with usage insights and notification of impact analysis.
